

CREATING A LIFEPLAN

A Year of Living Purposefully

“A goal without a plan is merely a wish.” Gaining clarity on meaning, purpose and passions is crucial to the pursuit of a happy, fulfilled life. Taking the specific steps necessary to achieve a desired future requires focused effort and a specific plan of action.

Using time-tested processes and hands-on tools, this session enables participants to uncover their deferred dreams and develop an action-oriented “LifePlan.” Based upon the concepts developed by Richard Leider and other leaders in the “Life Purpose” field, participants will chart a year-long course for living and working purposefully. Craig was personally trained by Richard Leider, NY Times bestselling author and “Purpose” expert who inspired the presentation.

Craig Rapp is a nationally known speaker and consultant. He has been a City Manager, an executive in two privately held companies, senior executive at a Regional Planning Council, the Director of Consulting for an International Association—and he has trained and performed Improv at The Second City in Chicago.

Craig offers other workshops including, 'Improv and Improve!', 'Refresh, Reboot or Reinvent?', 'Achieving Excellence: The Quest for a High Performance Organization' and many more.
